There must be other places in the universe where people don't have to work.

Sorry to be the bearer of bad news, but Mondays haven't been banished from the calendar -- yet. You have a full day (well, five days) of work stuff to look forward to.

On the glass-is-half-full side of things, there's lots of stuff happening around town this week, much of it free. Oh, and happy May Day (yes, that's actually a thing).
